Between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on 30 June 1951, 20 ground attack aircraft were parked in one row in front of the hangars and the flight control at Schoenwalde airfield. Ten additional ground attack planes were standing in one row on the western edge of the landing field. * The interior of the hangars located in the northeastern section of the field could not be seen. There was no flying. The radio installation with four masts was not set up again.  No other radio installation was seen at the field. The AA gun emplacement was abandoned. Trucks and passenger car were seen at the field.
